Countrywide inflation in Nov. sharply down to 4.1%

■ Partly due to a higher base last year

■ Food inflation likely to record spike in Dec

November's headline inflation, as measured by the year-on-year (YoY) change in the National Consumer Price Index (NCPI) fell sharply to 4.1 percent, from 5.6 percent in October, partly due to the statistical effect of a higher base prevailed a year earlier and the easing of food and non-food prices.
